

COURT MARSHALS APPOINTED

Mayor Announces Names of Men Who Will Serve in Queens.

Mayor Mitchell yesterday announced the following appointments of Marshals for the Municipal Court districts in Queens:

First District, John C. Cole, Worthland Avenue; Second District, Thomas J. McGuire, No. 127 Main Street, Flushing; and W. E. Cassidy, No. 708 Bleecker Street, Ridgewood Heights; Third District, Conrad Distal, No. 146 Ninth Street, Long Island City; Fourth District, James F. Sullivan, No. 324 Fulton Street, Jamaica, and Charles F. Connolly, No. 186 Franklin Avenue, Far Rockaway.

"Why Swear, Dear? Use 'Gels-It' for Corns!"

It's the New Plan. Simple. Sure as Fate. Applied in a Few Seconds.

"Why, John, I never knew you to use such language! I've told you several times it's no use to try those handkerchiefs, tapes, plaster, and contraptions for corns."

Here's some "Gels-It." It's just wonderful how easy, clear and clean it makes any corn come right off. Takes but a few seconds to apply. It dries at once. Put your sock on right over it—there's nothing to stick or roll up. Form a bandage of your toe, or press on the corn. It's painless, simple as rolling off a log. Now put away those knives, razors and saws. Use "Gels-It" and you'll have a sweeter disposition and in more corns and calluses. "Gels-It" is sold by druggists everywhere. 25c a bottle, or sent direct by J. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Atter.

Beauty and Health Lessons for the Summer

A New Series of Illustrated Articles Written by Miss Pauline Furlong for Women Readers of The Evening World.

By Pauline Furlong.

The contour of the throat depends almost entirely upon the large muscles which extend from the end of chin to the thyroid bone, to which it is attached, and if not exercised will deteriorate in size and strength, leaving the loose skin lined and wrinkled.

If the person is inclined to corpulence, the skin on the neck and chin will gradually fall in loose, flabby folds, and when this condition exists the work of rejuvenating the throat and chin must necessarily be more persistent than if you had only the shrunken muscles to improve, as in the case of the scrawny, thin neck.

Do not lose sight of the fact that when the chin has been neglected for many years and has lost its youthful outline almost entirely, it cannot be regained in a few weeks, or indeed months. The work of improving its outline, like everything else in life worth while, will require some exertion and great determination and will power. If you persist with the treatment you will soon learn that the muscles of the neck and throat, which affect the chin, respond readily to intelligent and regular treatment, and it is never too late to start the treatment, because exercises for the neck and chin are not too severe for even elderly women, or those who are not robust enough to practice the strenuous exercises for the rest of the body.

Head bending from side to side is shown in the illustration to-day and should be practiced twenty-five times each day, in conjunction with head turning and twisting shown Monday and Tuesday. These three exercises are the only ones necessary for restoring the neck, throat and chin to normal and beautiful lines. Allow the head to touch each shoulder as you bend it. These same exercises may be taken by the young and robust woman in a reclining position, with a rather high and hard pillow placed under the shoulders. This makes the movements more severe and often causes dizziness to those who are not practiced. Do not overdo them.

Letters From Readers.

CURED INDIGESTION AND LOST FIFTEEN POUNDS—MRS. L. S. writes: "I have found your exercises most beneficial both for reducing and overcoming indigestion, with which I suffered for years. I have had no trouble with it for some time. I want you to please tell me a facial massage which will remove the lines around the mouth. Mine is inclined to droop in the corners. The one you have already given for improving the contour of the face has helped me considerably."

Nothing is so effective for restoring the contour of the face as neck and chin exercises, which are being shown the week of June 12. While upward massage helps some to lift up the falling muscles, they must be built up with exercises before satisfactory results will be in evidence. Yes, wear the chin supporter at night to keep the mouth closed and help hold up the muscles. I have sent you the address.

SHORT HAIR—MRS. D. M. writes: "I wonder if it is possible to make my hair grow longer, or at least make it thicker? It is jet black and soft and thin, and it comes out a little too. I have so much trouble in fixing my hair, because it is so soft and thin. What can I do in order to develop my chest, which is flat, and my neck is thin?"

It is not possible to make the hair grow longer than nature intended, but it can be made thick and healthy. Soft hair is always unmanageable, and the best thing to do is to massage and treat the scalp and try to make the hair thicker, so that you can dress it to look well. Use a little olive oil, as a nightly massage, for several weeks to stimulate the circulation and growth. It is perfectly natural for the hair to come out in small quantities. When healthy it is immediately replaced with new and thicker growth. (Most raising and air swinging backward and forward, with two-pound dumbbells, widen the narrow chest. Deep breathing is also essential.)

SALAD DRESSING FOR OBESITY DIET—MRS. EDITH K. asks: "Will you please give me a recipe for salad dressing which may be eaten by obesity patients? I have often read your mention of it in the paper, but do not remember seeing the recipe; so please print it at your convenience." The following is a recipe for a salad dressing for the obesity diet: Beat the yolks of three eggs and the whites of two together (not separately) and add the following: 1 teaspoonful English (dry) mustard, 1/2 teaspoonful salt, 1/2 teaspoonful paprika, pepper, dash cayenne pepper, one tiny grain crystalline or any sugar substitute. Stir in one cup (scant) vinegar, slightly diluted with water if very strong. Pour all of these ingredients into a glass jar or double boiler, and let cook until soft like butter or custard, stirring constantly until the mixture thickens to the consistency of thick cream. Set away to cool for several hours.

KNOCK-KNEES—PHILIP H. (a boy reader) asks: "I am fourteen years old and have knock-knees. Can you suggest an exercise to overcome this condition, or am I too old to cure them?"

Squatting, tailor fashion, is one of the very best exercises for knock-knees and is effective if practiced early in life. You are not too old to overcome this defect. After you are seated on the floor, with the legs crossed under your body, lift and lower the body from and down to the floor, until slightly tired. Keep the hands on the hips meanwhile.

LONG WALKS—MISS E. R. writes: "Please tell me if I can reduce by taking long walks and dieting. I have not long recovered from an operation in the abdomen and am afraid to try the exercises, yet am so anxious to lose weight. I was operated on eight months ago. Do you think I could take a chance with the exercises, because I am so anxious to do so? I am 5 feet 5 inches tall. What should I weigh? I am now 170 pounds."

Through proper and sensible obesity diet, long walks and deep breathing you will not only lose weight, but gain health. Do not take any chances with difficult exercises at this time. You should weigh 116 pounds. Write.

back is not fattening, if eaten with butter.

LARGE PORES—W. MAC (a man reader) asks: "Please state in the paper what will cure large pores. Also what will remove the grayish mark that comes on a man's face after shaving. I send each one of your articles to several friends of mine in the West, and they take great delight in keeping the accumulation of superfluous fat off, through your lessons. Is peroxide good for the skin?"

For large pores use no cold cream and apply alcohol and witch hazel in equal parts on a puff of cotton to the pores as often as convenient. I do not know what will remove this gray mark. You will have to ask some of your men friends this question. I thank you for your interest in my efforts for better health.
